It is abundantly obvious that if the old land law was not satisfactory, neither has the present land law proved satisfactory, nor in its amended state is it likely to prove satisfactory. Our legislative wisdom has certainly not as yet solved the problem of how to handle the public estate wisely; and we have still to hope for more wisdom, more moderation, more freedom from class prejudice, and more readiness to take a comprehensive view of all the considerations—social, political, economical, and moral—which ought to come together in framing a law of such importance to the present and future welfare of the community.

In the explanation which Mr. PARKES offered on Monday evening, he mentioned the fact that the phrase in his minute to which so much exception has lately been taken was objected to in a Cabinet meeting by the present Speaker, who was then Minister for Justice. Mr. ALLAN appears to have demurred not to the substance of the expression, as much as to its form, as being liable to be untruthfully misinterpreted or purposefully misrepresented. It is a pity that Mr. PARKES did not entertain the objection, which as events have shown, was only too well founded. This is not the only occasion on which there has been reason to note that a little more amenability to outside suggestions would have been a safety to Mr. PARKES without being any loss of dignity.

A Prime Minister ought certainly not to be a nose of wax in the hands of his colleagues. To occupy his position rightly, he should have the clearest head, the most comprehensive mind, and perhaps the firmest will; but he might have all this and yet do himself the justice to give a really earnest consideration to the suggestions and objections of others. No man is infallible, and no man can himself look as public affairs from every possible point of view. And if this is true with regard to a statesman determining a line of public policy, it is still more true with regard to the exercise of his written documents.

The greatest masters of language know how unsatisfactory an instrument it is, how it is always liable either to express too little or too much. No one can so completely escape from the subjectivity of his own mode of thought or expression, and be so completely his own critic from an objective point of view, as to be quite certain that his language will carry no more meaning than he intends. It is one great advantage of a Cabinet meeting that an official document intended for subsequent publication is read there, the expression as well as the meaning is criticised from half-a-dozen points of view. Each colleague represents an average section of the outside public; and, if any one of them finds an expression ambiguous or dangerous, he probably stands for a larger number, who will see the thing in the same light.

A judicious Minister will always gladly accept, or at least carefully consider, friendly criticisms of his work, especially when the language criticised has a tendency to be placed under the burning lens of hostile analysis. We have already stated that, in our opinion, the language of Mr. PARKES is not fairly open to the construction that has been placed upon it; but then fairness is not yet the rule in our political discussions, and, knowing that, he should not have expected it. Perhaps he had no right to expect it, unless himself could be inwardly conscious that he had never misrepresented the meaning of his own opponents.

But, though the language he used has been tortured, we entirely agree with the late MINISTER FOR JUSTICE, that it might have been made less open to misconstruction. If Mr. PARKES has suffered, it has been his fault as well as his misfortune. He had the opportunity of putting himself outside the danger, and if he too hasty disregarded friendly advice, only to expose himself unnecessarily to his implacable foes, he has diminished the sympathy that would have been otherwise felt for him.

SCHOOL OF INDUSTRY.—The School of Industry Fancy Dress Ball will be held at the Masonic Hall, to-morrow evening.

THE STEPHENS LIFEBOAT.—This gave means of saving life in the event of shipwreck, constructed by Mr. S. Stephens, has been very favourably commented on by the Melbourne Press. From letters in the Argus, the writer has been told that, as far as the coast will arrive in Sydney shortly, the public will have an opportunity of judging for themselves of the great advantages appertaining to this invention.

ACCIDENT THROUGH MACHINERY.—A man named Joshua Wathup, whilst oiling some cog-wheels, having his right arm severely lacerated—all the flesh being torn off the arm—through one of the wheels catching and pulling him into the machinery. He was taken to the Infirmary and the Amputation was performed.

NEW SOUTH WALES CHURCH ASSOCIATION.—A meeting of members and delegates of the association was held on Monday evening at Tattersall's Hotel. In the absence of the president, Mr. W. C. Crane, senior, occupied the chair. There were also present representatives of the Wesleyan, Methodist, Congregational, and other Protestant churches. The Association resolved to invite the invitation of the hon. secretary of the association to witness the presentation of the Challenge Cup to the Albert C. U. The accounts of the association were read, and the secretary, having made a short speech, and a resolution was passed to vote £12 10s. for the purpose of improving the new grounds in the Domain, the chairman presented the Challenge Cup to Mr. Alderson, president of the Albert Club. He said he was one of the oldest strikers in that room, or perhaps in the colony. He was associated with the club for a long time, and had had the pleasure of playing many fair, manly, and pleasant games with the Alberts when Col. Ward was at the front, and also subsequently to that time, and the last few years, or two, when he resigned the yellow sash to the Alberts. He thought he had played in one of the Challenge Cup matches, and the club had played the game in a fairer or more manly way than the Alberts. (Cheers.) They had a friendly match with the Alberts, and it was with great satisfaction he presented it to them. Mr. Alderson responded, and trusted that good feeling would continue to exist amongst the various clubs. Mr. Gibson (hon. secretary of the Albert Club) and Mr. W. Goddard (who represented the University) and Dr. W. M. Moore (and Coates (University) and Day (Newtown)) then tendered their hearty congratulations to the Albert Club; Mr. Gibson's speech was to the effect that the Coming Season was to be the best ever, and the club had the best chance to drink in the health of the Albert Club.

THE RIVERINE TERRITORY.—The correspondent of the Argus writes:—There is no question but that the arrival of the mail from the Riverine Territories, to-morrow, will be a matter of great interest. The selectors who have worked out their 320 acres, and their acquisitions, and laid a fresh basis in Riverine on a large scale.

THE FLOOD AT Echuca.—A telegram in Saturday's Argus says:—The Murray River seems to have reached its maximum height for the present. It has slightly risen to-day, and hours are now entertained that the crest is over. The water is now flowing over the green embankment, which is about 100 yards wide, and has the power of playing many fair, manly, and pleasant games with the Alberts when Col. Ward was at the front, and also subsequently to that time, and the last few years, or two, when he resigned the yellow sash to the Alberts. He thought he had played in one of the Challenge Cup matches, and the club had played the game in a fairer or more manly way than the Alberts. (Cheers.) CONCERT AT THE EXHIBITION.—Saturday next is the day appointed for the concert that is announced to be given "in aid of the French Flood Relief Fund."

The programme that is offered, together with the object of the concert, which is to be to induce a goodly number of people to visit the Exhibition, will be given for the evening and in the evening, for which two performances were given, and both of these were very attractive ones. Mr. W. S. Lyster has kindly consented to do all in his power to make the concert a success.

There will be the annual meeting of the Old Comrades and Signor Giorgi, together with the Navy Brigade Band. It may be noticed that, with one or two exceptions, the performers in the afternoon will not take part in the evening, the afternoon's programme is to be given first. If it is so we hope an early opportunity will be taken to attend it, for there is no doubt that the mode in which slaughering is now carried on is often not only annoying but also dangerous to the public health.

COOPER.—Return of copper received at the Sydney Station for the week ending 10th July.—From Geelong 7 tons 8 cwt.; ditto Raglan, 10 tons: total, 17 tons 6 cwt.

CORONER'S COURT.—An inquest was held yesterday morning, at the Coroner's Office, Hyde Park, inquiring into the death of a man named John Bennett, late of the Royal Engineers. From the evidence it appears the deceased was a veteran of the War of 1812, and was taken to the Infirmary about 11 o'clock.

The injuries were attended to, and the deceased was sent home about half past 4 o'clock. Bennett was again brought to the Infirmary in an unconscious condition, and he was admitted. He was in a very dangerous condition, and was of opinion, from the result that death had been caused by malignant asphyxia. The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the medical testimony.

VICTORIA TREASURY.—Yesterday evening the "Princess of Treasures" was performed again to a crowded audience. The piece was favoured by the audience, and the box office was a success.

Dr. Halsted made a post-mortem examination of the body, which was pronounced dead, and was of opinion, from the result that death had been caused by malignant asphyxia.

The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the medical testimony.

THE GLADESVILLE ASYLUM.—A correspondent calls our attention to the inadequate accommodation provided for visitors to the Gladesville Asylum. He says that into a small room half-a-dozen patients, with their visitors, are sometimes crowded together, and the result of such an arrangement may be well imagined. If in the asylum more suitable reception rooms than those provided cannot be found, it is time, he thinks, that the Government should erect a building for the purpose.

NEWCASTLE.—We are informed that Mr. John Wood laid the foundation stone of a new store in Bolton-street, yesterday.

LUTON.—At the Scots' Church, Churchhill, the Rev. Dr. Steel delivered a lecture last evening, the Rev. Dr. Gilchrist occupied the chair, and there was a large audience. The subject was "The Jesuits— their history and development."

MELBOURNE.

The mail steamer Ceylon takes 54,000 ounces of gold and 127,896 sovereigns.

The case of Judge Dunn was again brought before the Assembly. The Premier stated that the balance amounted to £48 8s., half of which had been promised by the Government, and the other half would be paid by the members of the Legislative Council.

Mr. JAMES McCULLAGH has given notice of motion for an inquiry on an early day.

The Hill Bill was again considered.

Kingborough has receded for the Metropolitan Stakes to 10 to 16, which was offered.

Mr. B. Isaac, brewer, has called a meeting of his constituents.

Mr. JAMES LAFLEY supported the resolution, and in doing so said that he had been opposed by Professor Smith, who had stated that the bill was not of sufficient importance to come before the Council. (Hear, hear.) Of course the public interest and welfare were concerned. (Hear, hear.) The last man in the colony who could be considered a statesman, and the last man in the colony who could be considered a statesman, was the last man in the colony who could attempt to arrest the progress of anything useful. (Cheers.) He had actually attacked Professor Smith in a direct manner, and called upon him to resign his office as Dean of the Faculty. Professor Smith had mentioned his services in connection with the Council as a man of great ability, and he had done well to be called in the Parliament or not to be called in the Parliament. (Cheers.) This was the question into which it resolved itself. No doubt the privilege of debate was very often abused, as were many other good things; but that was no reason why a curb should be put upon it. (Hear, hear.) The bill was introduced by Mr. Holt, and it was his opinion that the bill was free to express his opinions and to legislate upon any subject in which the public interest and welfare were concerned. (Hear, hear.) Of course the public interest and welfare were concerned, and the last man in the colony who could be considered a statesman, was the last man in the colony who could attempt to arrest the progress of anything useful. (Cheers.) If they would look through the bill they would see the extreme and arbitrary powers which Dr. Holt had given to the medical profession. (Hear, hear.) He had actually attacked Professor Smith in a direct manner, and called upon him to resign his office as Dean of the Faculty. Professor Smith had done well to be called in the Parliament, and he had done well to be called in the Parliament. (Cheers.) He had not been attacked by Mr. Holt, and he had done well to be called in the Parliament. (Cheers.)

Mr. JAMES LAFLEY supported the resolution, and in doing so said that he had to apologise for the non-attendance of Mr. Mansfield, who had been called away, and of Mr. W. Ward.

Mr. PRATT said that he wished to present an amendment.

Mr. PRATT, being a member of the legal profession, he perhaps had some right to speak. He had come unknown to the gentlemen present in order to support the meeting in every way in his power, and had done so in the interest of the members of the medical profession. (Hear, hear.) He had given him a speech in the House of Assembly, and he had been attacked by Mr. Holt, and he had done well to be called in the Parliament. (Cheers.)

Walton Farrow, of Maitland, trustee of the Hope of Marulan division of the Society, and the principal secretary of his Excellency, was present, and having interchanged the usual courtesies excused him to the square, where in approved style the marines and natives presented arms as the Vice-Regal party passed through the ranks on their way to the principal entrance of the Government buildings.

After a few hearty cheers his Excellency appeared on the verandah, and, holding to absent friends a small speech, and, having given the usual courtesies, the following words were in a clear and sonorous voice, well modulated: "I am giving one the idea of thought and consideration being bestowed on every sentence that he uttered:

"Gentlemen.—These two boxes contain—the one, the Royal Charter of the Colony; the other, my Commission, addressed to me as its first Governor. THE WEATHER, AGRICULTURE, &c.

It is reported from Broadwood by the Advertiser of that the present Sunday was a fine, fresh day rather than a cold, but the weather was very changeable, then up to the 9th, there was fine bright weather with intense cold and no sun. On Tuesday morning, the hills in the Bombo side of the town were completely covered with snow and in Queanbeyan on Sunday there was a heavy fall of snow, but the weather was very changeable, and it is hard to be wandering about in the snow. On the 7th, we learn from Burragorang that during the few days preceding that date the weather was intensely cold Sunday, indeed, was as cold as a day has been experienced for many years, and a heavy fall of snow, as some persons would say, "half coated" Yarramundi, and, as a result, water receptacle to be covered with ice. Near to the town the roads are gradually drying up, but those at any distance are in a state of being wet and covered with snow, and those travelling are unpleasant.
